LOCAL BRIEVITIES.

Business men say the military occupation is knocking business in the head. The next Turners meeting of the societies in the Missouri valley takes place in this city on June 11. There will be a union Sunday School teacher's meeting in the parlor of the First M. E. Church, this evening at 7:15. Water connection has been made with the old court house yard and a drinking fountain with a sidewalk leading to it is the latest improvement inaugurated by the County Commissioners. The sidewalk on the northwest corner of Farnam and 12th is torn up and preparation made for the immediate removal of Beach's old building into the street to make way for the new bank. Five prairie schooners, containing two families, were seen on Farnam street yesterday bound westward. They report the weather as being rather too cold for them. The following stations on the Western Division of the Republican Valley railroad, will be open for business Sunday, March 19th: Stratton, Benkelman, Hagler, in Nebraska, and Eckley and Akron in Colorado. A detachment of sixty-one recruits passed through Omaha Wednesday for Cheyenne, and also a detachment of sixty-three for San Francisco. They came from Jefferson barracks, Missouri, and were in charge of Col. Greene. Henry Voss, the well known contractor, has completed plans for completely remodeling Brandt's Turner Hall. The stage will be greatly enlarged and improved and things generally bettered. Work is now in progress. For the next classic concert of the Philomathian Club at Max Meyer's Hall, a limited number of single admission tickets will be sold at Max Meyer & Bro.'s music store. The same must be taken before Thursday noon in order to insure seats. The Omaha Mill Works Co.'s property will be sold by the U. S. Marshal on the 26th of March. It is claimed that they have arrived at a point which would justify an outlay of half a million dollars and the present managers hope the works will be purchased by Omaha capitalists. The steamer Red Cloud, one of the largest and finest in the Upper Missouri trade, left St. Louis Wednesday for Benton and will be in Omaha some time next week. It is said that this will be the only boat up from St. Louis this season for Benton. Trollex & Co. are her agents. The first track for the Missouri Pacific railway in this city is being laid on Jackson street. It extends along the south side of the street from Ninth street to the Union Pacific shops track, a distance of three blocks, and will be used as a delivery track for city business and warehouse freight. There is quite a war on south 10th street, between the runners of the Germania H. use and Schlank's Hotel, both opposite the U. P. depot. They called each other names and raised a general disturbance until Wednesday when Louis Kohms was arrested and hauled out. The war began again yesterday and both men were arrested and the trial set for 2 p. m. to-day. The case of John Thompson and W. E. Solms, arrested for cruelly beating a horse, was continued in Judge Benke's court, to March 23rd at 10 o'clock. The case of Streitz vs. Hiltz, involving the question of the title of several real estate purchases in Hartmann's addition, came up before Judge Savage yesterday and was continued to the June term at the costs of the prosecution. Morris Morrison yesterday filed a complaint against W. E. Solms and John Thompson, living on Sixth street, near the Bellevue road, for cruelty to animals. The men are charged with outrageously beating with whips and boards a horse that was slightly balky. This they repeated almost daily for the past two weeks, and yesterday when the complainant advised them to stop, drove him off the premises. Sunday School Convention. The following is the programme for to-day, the closing day of the M. E. S. congress, opened in this city on Wednesday evening: 8:30 a. m. Devotional service. 9:00 Normal Class. 9:30 Paper of Address. 10:00 Discussion. 10:30 Normal Lecture—"Co-ordinate Forces"—Dr. J. H. Vincent. 11:30 Question Drawer. 3:00 p. m. Devotional Service. 3:30 Normal Lecture—"The use of Illustrations." 3:00 P. m. of Address. 3:30 "Our Young Folks"—Dr. J. H. Vincent. 4:30 Question Drawer. 7:00 Song Service. 8:00 Lecture—"That Boy"—Dr. J. H. Vincent. NOTICE. Henry Collins & Co., the Sixteenth street Grocers, have put in a good stock of Boots and Shoes in connection with their grocery establishment, and would most respectfully announce to their friends and patrons that they can be had of them as cheap as the cheapest. m14-1t

UNDER WHIP AND SPUR.

The Grand Jury, Organized to Indict, Have Accomplished the Object.

Two of the Labor Leaders Arrested and Confined in Jail.

Bail Refused by Judge Savage, and His Reasons Therefor.

Fonda Appears Before the Grand Jury as an Important Witness.

Quiet and Orderly Meeting of the Workmen at Kessler's Hall.

Yesterday afternoon another step was taken in the action of the civil authorities against the leaders of the laboring movement which is agitating Omaha.

The grand jury late yesterday afternoon presented indictments to the district court against some of the alleged leaders in the so-called riot of Wednesday of last week, and a little before six o'clock Mr. Walsh and Barney Shannon were arrested on writs of capias issued under the indictments by Judge Savage. Before the arrests were made court had adjourned and Judge Savage had gone to his home. He was called on by the bondsmen of Mr. Walsh who tendered bail for that gentleman, but as the judge did not see fit to receive it, Mr. Walsh was compelled to remain in the county jail.

A reporter of THE BEE called at the jail about seven o'clock last night to find out the circumstances of the arrest. It seems that Mr. Walsh had learned that his arrest was ordered and had started for the sheriff's office, when he was met on Farnam street by the deputy and arrested, and taken to the jail. He felt somewhat chagrined and could not see why the judge should refuse bail when it was tendered, and asked for some points of law regarding the right of the court to do so. However, he was confident that it would come out all right in the end; only he naturally disliked the idea of spending a night in the jail. Barney Shannon was there also, as he had returned from home, where he was in charge of a deputy accountant in his family with the news of his arrest and to get his supper. He said that he did not mind about the jail, but he regretted the circumstances which placed him there more on account of his family than for himself. They had the reporter say that Jailor Mills was making them as comfortable as lay in his power.

A call was then made at the residence of Judge Savage, to get the facts of the case and to his refusal to accept bail, when Judge Savage stated that at the close of court District Attorney Burnham and his assistant, Charles J. Green, had requested him to admit the prisoners to bail only when one of them was present, so that the amount of bail and the bondsmen could be objected to, and the case argued, if necessary. He regretted the circumstances which compelled the men to spend the night in jail, but the dignity of the court must be preserved, and the inconvenience to the prisoners was only what was liable to happen when the machinery of the law was turned evenly, grinding out justice to all alike. The question of bail would be argued at the opening of court to-day.

Mr. Walsh sent word to the Labor Protective union that he wished them to be perfectly cool and quiet, and take no action until he was liberated, which would be within less than twenty-four hours. It is generally understood that an indictment was also found yesterday against James Knight, president of the Molder's union and one of the executive committee of the Protective Labor union. Mr. Knight was not arrested last evening, and as below stated presided at the meeting of the workmen held in Kessler's hall. Of the indictments it is understood that there have been four found against Walsh, two against Shannon, and three against Knight. The principal charge against these gentlemen is that of assault with intent to kill, or the same charge upon which they were arrested.

WHAT BROUGHT THE INDICTMENTS. There are a good many things coming to light concerning the indictments found by the grand jury yesterday. The workmen complain loudly of this action and charge that there is a collusion between the district attorney and Chas. Green, Esq., the recognized counsel of the B. & M. company and that Mr. Green appeared as the prosecuting attorney before the grand jury in accordance with that understanding. It is also claimed that Wm. A. Fonda appeared as a witness before the grand jury and that upon his representations there the indictments were in great part found. They state that Fonda appeared as a witness because it was discovered by members of the executive committee last week that Fonda had written the letter which the mayor stated he received informing him of intended trouble at the dump on Wednesday afternoon. This letter is claimed by the members of the executive committee to contain only fabrications and baseless lies. In connection with this allegation the following, in a recent issue of the New York Tribune, may be of some interest: The arrest of William Augustus Fonda, chairman of the executive committee of the "Labor Union," as a ringleader in the Omaha riots, excites much interest in Paterson, N. J., where Fonda was well known until about two years ago, when he went to Omaha to find better appreciation of his peculiar talents than was accorded in his native city. He had been a prominent figure in Paterson from his boyhood, and was generally regarded as a hard core "ability." His mental responsibility has always been a subject of discussion in Paterson, and if he had ever rendered himself amenable to the law, it is doubtful whether a Passaic county jury could have been empanelled which would not have hesitated to consign him to any place of confinement but an insane asylum. The test never came, for Fonda's life in Paterson was law-abiding. His obliquity seemed to consist in a mania for perversion. He was an incorrigible romantic, and his exploits in that direction are well remembered. His romances did no harm, as nobody believed him Fonda was in turn a Ritualist, Roman Catholic, and a fervent disciple of Ingersoll. His memory was wonderful, and he could repeat accurately passages from Greek and Roman classics. Among the workmen of Paterson he never had any following, although his devotion to the "labor" cause broke out some time before his departure for the west. His father, now dead, was a respectable citizen, and his sister is a physician of the regular and highly esteemed in the community for her benevolence and social qualities. Fonda's irregularities have been a source of grief to his relatives.

Another very interesting bit of news has leaked out. It appears that the card from Fonda published in one of the morning papers was submitted first to Mayor Boyd and that the latter wrote a letter for Fonda's benefit directed "To whom it may concern," containing considerable fulsome praise and "taffy" for that gentleman's benefit. This letter Fonda stated he desired for the benefit of his relatives and friends in the east. AT KESSLER'S HALL. A most enthusiastic meeting of the Omaha Laborers' Protective union was held last evening at Kessler's hall on Thirteenth street. The spacious hall was filled to its utmost capacity, and it was evident that the news of the arrest of President Walsh and Barney Shannon and the rumored indictments of other prominent workers in the laboring men's movement had stirred up great excitement. When James Knight, of the executive committee, appeared and took the chair in the absence of the president, he was greeted with applause, as it was generally supposed that he, too, had been arrested. Mr. Knight called the meeting to order, and made an extended, temperate and yet very forcible speech. He was interrupted frequently by tumultuous applause, which indicated in how full sympathy the meeting was with his sentiments. He said that the workmen should in no wise regard this legal persecution as an omen of defeat. This union was as strong as ever. They could be assured that, although their president was in jail because of his devotion to the cause of right and justice, and other of the prominent members of the organization were hourly expecting arrest, still the cause was on the high road to victory and success was bound to come. He denounced the grand jury as being under the spell of a corporation, which had used every means in its power to crush the laboring men of this city and other places under the heel of its starving despots. These grand jurors are on record by this action, and should collectively and individually be remembered by the workmen for their action. The workmen should no longer confine themselves to the lines of politics, nor should they consider anything except their interests, and men of their choice. [Cheers.] This persecution of the men connected with this movement was a dodge on the part of the mayor and those who have brought the troops into our peaceful city to justify their childish action. It was for the purpose of inciting the laboring men to commit some unlawful act and seek thereby an excuse to use the guns and bayonets which were becoming a laughing stock and a cause for ridicule. It was therefore necessary that the laboring men should be especially careful that this malicious and dastardly proposal should not be followed. Although the civil authorities should persecute them to the utmost possible degree; although they should cause arrests by the hundred, and should throw peaceable citizens in jail hourly and daily, still the workmen of Omaha should restrain themselves and still maintain that dignity of purpose and lawful demeanor that they would put to shame the men who have falsified their oaths of office and the so-called executive committee of the state, who have established a military camp and brought an armed mob to increase the revenues of the gin mills, and patronize the dives which decent men will not enter. But the workmen need not fear for the result. The end was not far away and it was sure to come. Less than a half dozen men were now working at the B. & M. dump and no more could be induced to work. The workmen were so organized that no laborer could be brought here from other towns, as the union was in communication with all of the labor organizations of every principal town and city in the country, and had received assurances that no labor should be furnished to defeat the cause of the Omaha workmen.

In regard to the indictments and arrest, the speaker said that he proposed to face the music, and he knew that all of those arrested would do the same. They also proposed to subpoena as many witnesses as there were men in the procession on the day when the offenses against them were charged. They would bring 5,000 witnesses before the court, and give the authorities a chance to try the cases to their hearts' content. When the reference was made to the arrest of President Walsh, the entire assemblage arose to their feet, and cheered the name of their leader to the echo. Daniel O'Keefe, vice-president of the National Bricklayers' Union, followed with an eloquent and forcible speech which was heartily applauded. Mr. Nead then addressed the Scandinavians in their native tongue at considerable length. The contributions to the cause were then received and announced. They were as follows: Boyd's packing house men, $20; Leary's shop at the U. P. works, $22.50; sheet iron workers of the U. P. shops, $16.00; car repair shops of the U. P., $29.00. The total amount was $87.50. Mr. Murphy delivered an able address on the leading questions of the strike. He was followed by Mr. Nead on the same subject, and Mr. Kruger addressed the Germans in their language. The following resolution was presented by Chairman Knight and unanimously adopted, the meeting arising and cheering: Whereas, The grand jury have indicted and caused the arrest of our worthy president, therefore be it Resolved, That we denounce his action as an injury to American liberties; and be it further Resolved, That we stand by our president, recognizing him as a martyr, and propose to stand by him to the last. THE SMELTERS. The smelters held a meeting at Kessler's hall last night at seven o'clock, and concluded their business before the meeting of the labor union was called. They voted unanimously to stand out for $175 for those who are receiving a less amount. Those who are receiving that or more desire nothing, but intend to see that respectable wages are paid the others. There are about as many rumors in the air as there are men to circulate them, but there is probably no foundation for any of them. The workmen seem to realize fully the importance of their position in this crisis, and they are determined upon the quiet, orderly behavior which their leaders counsel. The arraignment of President Walsh and ex-Councilman Shannon, and all others arrested on indictments, will be attended by a large crowd this morning. The B. & M. will be promptly furnished, and the arrested men will undoubtedly demand immediate trial. CARD OF THANKS. To the Editor of THE BEE. We desire through the columns of your paper to express to our friends, one and all, who have been so kind to us in our recent bereavement, and whose sympathy is so consoling to those who suffer the loss of a husband and father, our sincere thanks and assure all of a grateful recognition of the same. Respectfully Yours, GEO. D. ARMSTRONG, THOS. P. ARMSTRONG, WILL E. ARMSTRONG. It is the wish of the family that the Council Bluffs Nonpartisan copy notice as the deceased had many friends over there and some most acceptable proof of that friendship have been received.

EVERYTHING HAS BEEN QUIET about the B. & M. grounds yesterday. The military, both regulars and militia, are still on duty, but they are taking things very easy. Around the barracks the soldiers occupy their time in reading, smoking and swapping yarns, and with the exception of the dozen or so sentries there are no movements which would indicate that the boys in blue were doing more than waiting for a train. The work on the dump is proceeding quite lively, although only about fifteen men are at work, including the teamsters. Eleven teams are employed in dragging the dirt, which is cut from the bank by the steam shovel. The teams are driven in a circle, and they are kept in constant motion. Stephenson was on the ground for a short time yesterday, but he had nothing to say regarding an increase in the number of laborers. Wild rumors are afloat about the streets concerning the ominous silence of the workmen and their reticence about future action. One man excitedly told the reporter yesterday that there was a plot on the part of the militia to attack the dump and throw them into a pan. Another man gave it as his opinion that dynamite might be used effectively in certain directions. All of these rumors, however, are probably entirely without any foundation, and it is certainly no excuse for any outbreaks. The good order of Wednesday's funeral procession was indications of this desire on part of those who are engaged in it and who sympathize with the strike. COLOR PRESENTATION. At dress parade Wednesday Col. W. E. Kidder, of the Seventh New York veterans, as a testimonial of his appreciation of the many favors received at the hands of the militia and people of Nebraska during his stay here, presented to the regiment a color or flag, regulation size, which is pronounced worthy of any regiment in America. The presentation speech was delivered by Lieut. Schuyler, of the regular army, as follows: "I have the honor, in the name of the veteran commander of the Seventh regiment of the national guard of the state of New York, Col. W. E. Kidder, to present to the First regiment of the national guard of the state of Nebraska, this headquarters flag as a token of the prompt loyalty with which they have responded to the call of the chief executive of their state, of their efficiency and bearing in the field, and of the distinguished self-control that they have shown in the performance of the very delicate duty they have been called upon as citizen soldiers to perform. "I can assure you that these sentiments are cordially echoed by the officers and soldiers of the regular army here serving."

Take this color, and let the regiment stand by it as they would by their own hearts' stones, quick to see any danger which may menace it and prompt to act in its defense." Col. Colby responded as follows: "On behalf of the First regiment of the Nebraska National guards, I take great pleasure in receiving the elegant colors presented by Colonel W. E. Kidder, of the famous New York Seventh, and while thanking the veteran colonel for his beautiful present you can assure him that his gift is appreciated by the officers and men of my command and that they will safely indulge the hope that the banner will never be trailed in disgrace by the First Nebraska National guards." The boys are very proud of this emblem, which shall for years call to mind the pleasant, genial Col. Kidder, to whom they are indebted for so many little military suggestions. The Colonel says that this regiment makes as fine an appearance as many regiments of the New York brigade, and make less mistakes than would be believed by himself had he not seen them.

SERIOUS CHARGE

A Denver Detective Nails an Old Omaha Offender.

On Tuesday last a dispatch was sent from this city to General Cook, superintendent of the Rocky Mountain Detective association, in Denver, giving some information of a criminal nature against a man now recognized in Denver as the member of a business firm.

Captain Hawley, of the association, who had the working up of the case, tells the facts as follows: Recently he was given a board bill to collect by the proprietors of the Windsor. It was for $37.50. Mr. G. P. Van Deman, of the Blake street firm of Van Deman & Cramer, was the debtor. The bill was dated March 13, 1881. It could not be collected. Mr. Hawley heard that Van Deman had victimized an Omaha business firm, and wired them, asking them if they desired to prosecute the man. The reply received by Chief Cook, was signed by the firm of McCord, Brady & Co., and said that Van Deman had defrauded them out of $40, but the loss was not great enough to encourage them in prosecuting him. They desired that the Denver trade be made acquainted with the facts.

It appears that Van Deman ingratiated himself into the good graces of a member of the Omaha firm, Mr. McCord, and representing that he was a traveling man, obtained the amount named under some pretext. The detectives assert that Van Deman has traveled under the alias of George Payson, and that he was arrested in San Francisco for some such offenses as the above.

BUSINESS MEETINGS.

The New Missouri River Bridge—The Board of Education. An adjourned meeting of the board of education was held Wednesday; present, Messrs. Conoyer, Thrall, Anderson and President Long. The committee to whom was referred petition of F. Slaven asking that the amount paid by him as license for sale of liquors be refunded, reported in favor of granting petition. Report adopted. The board listened to remarks from Messrs. Morrison, Rush and Hascall in regard to location of the new school house in south Omaha, and without taking any action in matter adjourned to meet Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock.

THE NEW BRIDGE.

The incorporators of the Missouri River bridge wagon bridge company, met at the board of trade rooms in evening of Wednesday, together with joint committees of the Omaha and Council Bluffs boards of trade. There were present Col. Sapp, Messrs. Rodifer, Graham, Baldwin, Hart and Keys of Council Bluffs, and C. F. Goodman, T. W. T. Richards, J. A. Wakefield, J. S. Brady, J. Sheely and Thomas Gibson of this city. Col. Sapp presented the bill for a charter for the bridge company, which was read and discussed. Mr. Keys moved that at the adjourned meeting each of the incorporators send a proxy if he could not come himself. Carried. The bill was placed in the hands of the secretary, Mr. Thomas Gibson, for incorporators to examine. The meeting adjourned to reconvene in Council Bluffs on Wednesday next at 2 p. m.

What He Thinks.

A reporter of THE BEE called on Adjutant General Alexander yesterday afternoon, at his apartments at the Withnell house, and was very cordially received. The conversation, of course, turned naturally to the condition of affairs in the city at the present time, and the general gave it as his opinion that the calling of the military here was legal and justifiable. Concerning the withdrawal of the troops he could say nothing, as that was in the hands of the city executive, and would be governed by the mayor.

The conversation then turned to the subject of state politics, and the general stated he believed that the question of a special session of the legislature was settled in the affirmative, and that the governor would make the call immediately, if he had not already done so. State politics in general and the chances of executive aspirants were discussed at some length. He commended Mr. Dawes, of Crete, one of the ablest candidates in the field, but added that "one can't tell until he has an opportunity to look over the various delegations."

General Alexander has heard of his name being mentioned in connection with a possible candidacy for the office of governor, but says it was wholly unauthorized, and says that he has made no mention of any views he may have in that direction. Governor Nance, he thinks, will not be a candidate for re-election; but he does not speak positively on that point, as he has no positive information and only speaks his private opinion.

NEW SEMINARIES.

Two Educational Structures to be Erected by the Episcopal Church. At a meeting of the trustees of Brownell Hall seminary for ladies, held on Tuesday evening, the Rt. Rev. Robert H. Clarkson, bishop of the diocese presiding, and Trustees ex-Mayor U. S. Chase, Herman Kuntze, Henry Yates, Esq., and others were present, beside Canons Reva, Patterson and Doherty. The trustees decided to build, adjoining the present seminary a new seminary building of brick, at about six thousand dollars outlay, this season. At the same time the trustees are looking out for lands farther out from the city, in which to build a ladies' seminary of a probable cost of $20,000, or thereabouts. The seminary will be under the auspices of the Episcopal church.
